TRADITIONAL XMAS PARTY THIS YEAR

26 November from 16 o'clock

mulled wine (Glühwein) will be served in the greenroom (2nd-floor breakroom).

Later we will go to the Exactum cafeteria, where menu I and menu II will be served. Please select the one you want when you register for the party.

Menu I

- Green salad
- Crab aioli
- Rustic meat paté with crushed lingonberries
- Dill pickle
- Emmenthal sticks and tomato wedges
- Assortment of bread, chive spread
- Roast lamb, dark herb sauce
- Potatoes dauphinoise
- Oven-roasted root vegetables
- White-chocolate mousse, strawberry sauce

Menu II

- Green salad with strawberries
- Marinated root vegetable terrine, red onions
- Mushroom salad
- Courgette pie, tomato compote
- Rolled pork flank, cranberry compote
- Assortment of bread, churned butter
- Salmon with fennel
- Honeyed beet wedges
- Steamed broccoli
- Baked apples, whipped cream with caramel

We are asking for 3€ per person in drinking money; please pay it to Pirjo Kokkonen in office D239.

When your dining experience is interrupted by a speaker clinking his/her glass, you will know that it is time for the PORRIDGE SPEECH. Once the formalities have been taken care of, we will let our hair down, in spite of the strange rumours emanating from the administrative wing all autumn. This year we will have to settle for our own home-made entertainment. We will have to have our very own Body-language show. There are some dangers with that, but we will see where we end up.

Last year, we promised there would be the traditional caravan dance, but as it turned out, we had to skip it. Hopefully, Arto will take us back to our old paths, and we have been good this year, so we are expecting the CARAVAN DANCE and a VISIT FROM FATHER CHRISTMAS.

Caravan dance at Xmas party in XIIX.

As you can see, there is no dress code, and this year we have learned to leave out anything unnecessary. This is why the most important thing is to spend a fun and relaxing evening together, so you are very welcome to attend our Xmas party.
